

Retirement reinvented

Mercer Wise Pooled Employer Plan

The SECURE Act allows employers across all industries and sizes to band together in pooled employer plans (PEPs), which gives them the opportunity to offer a new kind of defined contribution (DC) plan. By pooling resources, employers can potentially reduce plan costs, decrease their administrative and fiduciary burdens, and expand retirement plan access by offering retirement benefits to their employees. We believe PEPs merge the attractive features of traditional 401(k) plans with a new, innovative design that has the potential to improve the retirement journey for millions of Americans.

What is the Mercer Wise PEP goal?

Traditional 401(k) retirement plans

- Employers sponsor the plan.
- Employers can choose to manage the plan themselves or outsource investments, plan administration or fiduciary oversight to an Outsourced Chief Investment Officer (OCIO).

Same core benefits

- Both types of plans help employees save for retirement.
- Employees contribute a percentage of their salary.
- Employers can offer a match.
- Participants have access to a variety of investment options.

Pooled employer plans (PEPs)

- Employers join a PEP and no longer sponsor their own plan.
- A pooled plan provider (PPP) generally assumes administration, management and fiduciary responsibility for the plan.
- Employers retain the responsibility to select and monitor the PEP and PPP.

At a time when many plan sponsors are struggling with the impact of COVID-19 and heightened litigation and regulation, PEPs could offer significant advantages to participants and employers.

PEPs can benefit participants and employers

How PEPs help participants

Seek better outcomes

Offer professional oversight and high-rated investment options

How PEPs benefit both

Potentially reduce fees

How PEPs help plan sponsors

Reduce administrative workload; provide an extension of staff

Mitigate fiduciary risk
